Bring Back Manly Men

Medium: Digital Photography

Artist Statement:

Photography has always been my passion, it is my main source of happiness. Shooting portraits gives a more personal connection to my viewers. One thing I have always loved about photography is how I can make a statement visually by working with live models. I love working with people, getting to know them, and watching them become more comfortable and confident in front of the camera.

Description:

This photo is my own way of saying you can be whoever you want to be and wear whatever you want to wear. I was inspired by the feud between Harry Styles and Candace Owens. As a young artist, it is important for me to use my artistic voice to share my opinions about the world.
