Artist Statement:

Writing and literature is a big inspiration for me, whether it's the books, quotes, or ideas I read. One quote that I think about a lot while creating art is: "art is meant to disturb the comfortable and comfort the disturbed". I want my art to make people stop and think about it and stick with them. I like to explore low and wide angles with my photography. I used my DSLR camera with a wide-angle lens and learned how to use external lighting and editing software while taking my picture.

Description:

The book The Fountainhead was a big inspiration for me when taking this picture. I tried to capture my fascination with the book by making the photo seem mysterious, just like I am mystified by the author's compelling story.
