Little Warrior

Medium: Photography

Artist Statement:

The purpose of this photograph is to show how today's generation struggles finding a balance between what is modern and what is a part of its culture. This is what indigenous looks like today: You're trying to find a balance between your culture and the dominant culture of our generation.

Description:

When I put this photo in black and white, the reason was the aesthetics. At first glance, it looks gloomy, but with the balance of the whites and blacks, it gives a sense of hope. The blue is to draw attention to the cultural aspect of this photo, to bring your eyes there first, because it stands out, and forces you to think more in depth about the meaning of this photo.
