Persphone

Medium: Clay

Artist Statement:

This was probably my largest and most difficult piece of art I have completed so far in my life, she took 2 months to shape and create not including drying, baking and glazing. One of the biggest struggles making Persephone was symmetry and balance, the arch in her back had me worried but overall I am very happy that she is sturdy and beautiful.

Description:

My art piece, Persephone, is based off of the Greek myth of Persephone, how a young girl was torn between the underworld and the earth. If you look closely at her you will notice that her body isn't perfect, you'll see there are dents, cracks, and how its crumbled representing how she's slowly fading away being torn between two worlds.

Status: Exhibit only
