Untitled-1

Medium: Acrylic painting on canvas

Artist Statement:

This piece started out as a way to keep myself busy, with no real meaning, but with the worsening COVID-19 pandemic over the past few months, and as I progressed further on the piece, it became more meaningful, as a representation of our current lives and how they have changed. The figure remains completely masked as a token of what many of us feel during the current times, loneliness, isolation, and whatever else you may feel, you choose what emotions it represents.

Description:

Using strong color and contrast, this piece depicts the upper half of a figure in a modernized "plague doctor" mask and hoodie. The composition of strong orange and textured white background allows the entire piece to remain interesting while still allowing the cool greys and blues of the figure to stand out to the eye.
