Artist Statement

This was taken during a family vacation and was one of my first adventures in nature photography. I was captivated with the Owl just having bathed in a nearby creek and wanted to capture the animals essence. This photo reflects the beauty of the Owl but also captures an irritated expression when humans interrupt a natural habitat--not even owls want to be watched while bathing and this owl is trying to give me a well honed glare to ensure his privacy isn't further interrupted.

Description

This is a photograph taken with a 250mm image stabilizer macro lens. This photo was taken from 6 feet away during the afternoon.
